

Persimmon coils contain and route cabling delivered from interstitial hubs.

Below-desk compartments intelligently house cabling behind optional magnetic polyester covers.

Storage suspended from underside of worksurface and end panels.

Planked wood graphic design applied to end panels.

Adjustable height desking in a 120° wishbone formation.

Storage and privacy elements transform REX into a sophisticated height adjustable workstation.

Single-sided configuration with black power and data hubs between positions.